A2P

Exactly what is A2P (application to person). A2P is a powerful messaging tool for businesses to communicate with their customers quickly and efficiently. Our platform currently gathers text and form messages generated from your website. All messages will be filtered through our AI assistant. The AI will segment critical messages and disposition them to the right person, while responding to routine requests. Future releases will include: email communication, comments, social posts and replies, incoming and outgoing phone calls. Our A2P will be connected to our AI Assistant. What does this mean. This will allow your AI Assistant to know the context of conversations with your business. Our AI assistant will know from the communications the status of this potential user becoming a paying customer, it will provide ongoing updates to the CRM.

Portal Development

We are experts in developing community portals that serve a specific sector covering a geographic area. We have integrated solutions that address all of the common challenges that a portal faces in its day to day operations. In our most recent project we have been tasked to update a 15 year old portal. Our content aggregator was a game changer. We put in place a global scraping tool that will identify relevant content,, our AI machine learning software will categorize and sub-categorize the content and place the article within the portal news section. This same AI technology will ensure that the members of the portal all have their own member sections synchronized with their websites. Members no longer have to update their membership sections.

Perfect for: Associations, Regional Tourism, Community Economic Development, News Organizations

The internet blew the doors open, democratizing information and handing a powerful advantage to those who could master data. But AI takes this a monumental step further. It automates and amplifies data analysis, letting businesses dig deeper, predict trends with uncanny accuracy, and make truly informed decisions. To sideline AI isn't just a missed opportunity; it's a forfeiture of your very ability to compete in today's data-driven world.

To fully exploit the value of integrating AI into your business process we look forward to having a conversation.
